Welcome to Granville!

From the Granville Area Chamber of Commerce

www.granvilleoh.com

The 2013 Granville Magazine is for anyone who is searching for a great place to visit, an acclaimed small liberal arts college, or the perfect place to live, and of course, for those of us who have already found it. The Granville Area Chamber of Commerce publishes one magazine per year and seeks to include something for everyone.

Visitors to Granville are immediately taken by the quaint charm of a modern day village that retains the look and feel of an old New England town. In fact, there are 120 homes and buildings on the National Historic register. No wonder I hear visitors say over and over, "I feel like I'm stepping back in time" and "You are so lucky to live here!"

We look forward to having you visit Granville! Lodging options range from historic inns, such as the Buxton, which is the oldest, continuously operated inn in Ohio, to the iconic Granville Inn, to the Welsh Hills Inn, a Country Bed and Breakfast, awarded second in the Top 25 B&B's and Inns in the World for 2013 by Trip Advisor. (See the Business Directory for places to stay, shop, dine, and more.)

Since 1831, Granville has been home to Denison University. Rated eighth in Kiplinger's "100 Best Values in Private Colleges," Denison's enrollment is 2,185, with students from 51 U. S. states and territories and 29 foreign countries, all living on campus. The student/faculty ratio is 10:1. Says Denison's President, Dale Knobel, "Students here can't fly under the radar. They matter as individuals and they are prepared for lives of consequence by the best faculty who know their students' names and know how to inspire great things."

Thanks to the Internet, people from all over the United States and the world (truly) are discovering that Granville is a little piece of heaven and are making the move to live here. Some who have spoken to me about their decisions come from large cities and are ready to give up their hustle bustle lives. They yearned for a simpler life, a quieter life--a "step back in time." They found it in Granville. Some desired a senior-friendly community. They found it in Granville. Some longed for a small town atmosphere with excellent schools to raise their children. They found it in Granville.

Those of us who live here found Granville in a number of ways. Some grew up here and have never wanted to leave. Some were transferred here for a job and have never wanted to leave. Some moved here to live near family and have never wanted to leave. Is it because of a college that brings in world-renowned artists and speakers? Is it the small town charm, the history, the excellent schools, the events?

My guess is it's all of these things.
We know we're lucky.

Looking forward to seeing you in Granville!

The Annual Daffodil Show is enjoyed by people of all ages.

"Spring brings the opening of the Granville Farmers Market. The Market provides homegrown and homemade foods and fresh flowers for your home and is a social meeting place. It brings hundreds of shoppers from central Ohio (in addition to the townsfolk) to Granville every Saturday morning from mid-May to mid-October." Larry Strayer, Market Master, Granville Farmers Market

Some will say that spring comes to Granville like the blossoming of a sunny yellow daffodil. That could be true, because for the past 68 years, the town's garden club faithfully celebrates spring's awakening with its April Daffodil Show, where hundreds of bobbing trumpet flowers, plucked from local yards and gardens, lift spirits and chase away the winter blues. Visitors can purchase their favorite varieties and pick them up after the fall's bulb harvesting.

The Daffodil Show is located at the Bryn Du Mansion, the estate house just east of the Village. The Village purchased the property in 2002, but for most of its 148-year history, Bryn Du was owned by John Suptkin Jones and his daughter, Sallie Jones Sexton, who built the Granville Inn and the Granville Golf Course, which was designed by Donald Ross. The Mansion is now a popular destination for weddings as well as a venue for a variety of community events throughout the year.

A stimulating spring event, new this year, is the Historical Town Meeting with Frederick Douglass featuring a re-enactment of the abolitionist and orator Frederick Douglass and others in period costume. The event is Saturday, May 18, at 4:00 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church.

As early spring flowers bid farewell to winter, area farmers and vendors prepare for the long-awaited Granville Farmers Market, which this year opens Saturday, May 18. Established and sponsored by the Granville Area Chamber of Commerce (GACC) more than 20 years ago, the market has grown into one of Ohio's finest with 60 local farmers, bakers and food producers setting up their tents on North Main Street every Saturday through October 19, underscoring the popularity of local food and friendship. The GACC also sponsors a Tuesday market from 3:00 to 6:00 p.m. in the summer and an indoor Winter Farmers Market.

The Granville Farmers Market is featured in a new book, Homegrown: Stories from the Farm, where area farmers share their personal stories of growing healthy, clean food. The book, by local author Evelyn Frolking, explores the

Summer Season Events

Downtown Granville showcases nearly 500 colorful, sleek Porsches at the P2O Show on July 27.

“Granville would surely have been immortalized by Norman Rockwell had he ever visited here in the summer.”

Melissa Hartfield, Granville Mayor

Summertime is a lovely season of the year to visit Granville. Spend a weekend at one of our historic inns or quaint bed and breakfast locations, stroll along the tree-lined streets, explore the delightful little shops to find unique treasures, and enjoy a savory meal at an intimate restaurant or grab a bite to eat at a casual pub or café.

An early morning view of downtown sidewalks during the week of July 4th.

Other towns may experience the lazy days of summer, but summertime in Granville is jam-packed with events commencing on May 27, with the Memorial Day Parade and ceremonies highlighting the morning, and the free Concerts on the Green series beginning that evening. The outdoor concerts take place on West Broadway on Denison University's Fine Arts Quad. Couples, families, and individuals of all ages bring picnics and lawn chairs to relax and enjoy a wide range of live performances throughout the summer.

The Concert on the Green concert series is a favorite on Sunday evenings in the summertime.

It would not be summer in Granville without the many athletic races of the season that include participants from near and far. Events include the Kayla 5K on June 8, the Rotary Firecracker Five on July 4, and many others, noted on the event listing at www.granvilleoh.com or www.RunOhio.com.

If you visit Granville on a Sunday afternoon from June through September, you can enjoy exciting Polo on the Great Lawn of the Bryn Du Mansion from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m., weather permitting. Also happening at the Bryn Du Mansion is the Art Affair and Wine Festival on June 7 & 8.

The four-day-long old-fashioned 4th of July Festival is yet another signature event. The town's population swells during the first week of July as the Inns and Bed and Breakfast locations fill up with visitors and many former residents who return to Granville to re-connect with family and old friends and enjoy the celebration. Broadway is closed to traffic as the Street Fair comes alive. A bandstand is erected and bleachers beckon folks to sit a spell and be entertained by musicians and dancers. Two all-time favorites of the Granville festivities are the mile-long Independence Day Parade that can trace its roots to the 1800s and the gala fireworks display.

Granville's Fourth of July Celebration is fun for all ages.

A summer event new to Granville and on the fast track to becoming a regional favorite is the Porsche Club of America's P2O (Porsches to Ohio) Car Show, held from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Saturday, July 27. Broadway is lined with nearly 500 Porsches of various years and models. Travelers from as far away as Canada came to Granville for the 2012 P2O show.

On Saturday, August 10, nearly 3,000 bike riders in Pelatonia, the grassroots organization with One Goal to End Cancer, will pedal through downtown Granville. Riders in the event vary from cancer survivors to experienced cyclists, and many ride in honor or memory of someone who is fighting or has fought the disease.

Granville Schools and Denison University begin classes in August, signaling the end of summer. Street Scenes Creative Artisans and Merchants Show is Granville's last summertime event where artisans from Vermont, Indiana, West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky, as well as Granville merchants, sell exclusive hand-made items at this annual, outdoor event. ♦

“Homegrown, hometown fun. The Bluesfest runs on goodwill, from the core of volunteers who plan it, to the small army who don the staff shirts for one exhausting day, to the generous donors who make it possible to put on this event at no charge to attendees.” Tom Carroll, co-founder of the Hot Licks Bluesfest

With a backdrop of bright yellow and orange trees that rival any autumn color in the northeast, the Hot Licks Bluesfest ushers in Granville's fall season in a spectacular way on September 7, 2013.

It started small — just a couple of friends talking about ways to draw people to downtown Granville, to showcase the community and its businesses. Maybe a musical event? How about a free music festival? What kind? Hmmm... how about the blues?

In September 2000, this simple idea, executed by a small, dedicated group of music lovers, gave birth to the optimistically titled First Annual Hot Licks Bluesfest. Thirteen years later, the group is still tiny, but the festival has grown into a nationally recognized event that's a destination for fans and artists alike. What's the secret of its success?

The free Hot Licks Bluesfest features an impressive roster of legendary blues musicians throughout the day-long festival.

Great music. Wonderful setting. Free, friendly, fun. It's a party that the entire community embraces, one that's grown into a tradition that draws family and friends together from across the country, even internationally.

Start with the music. Aficionados will gasp at the names of blues legends past and present who have performed: Carey

The historic Robbins Hunter Museum is open for free guided tours, Wednesday through Saturday, 1-4 pm, April to December.

Bell, James Cotton, Sam Lay, Magic Slim and the Teardrops, Robert Junior Lockwood, Willie Pooch, Hubert Sumlin, Tracy Nelson, Wallace Coleman, Gene Walker, Sean Carney, Tab Benoit. Local and regional favorites are featured, too: Scott Ainslie, Joanna Connor, Rev. Raven and the Chain-Smokin' Altarboys, Ellie Lee and Blues Fury, Teeny Tucker, Shaun Booker. But you don't have to be a blues expert to be moved by the music. Older couples swing to the beat, tiny toddlers twirl, and everyone in between delights in great, live music – free!

Wonderful setting. Close off Broadway between Main and Prospect streets for the day, put a stage at one end and Granville's 52-acre Bryn Du Mansion estate is the perfect location for two distinctive art shows that take place every fall. The Bryn Du Art Show, this year from October 1 to 10, is a juried show with all of the exhibited art available for sale. Over 100 artists vie to be one of the 50 artists selected to exhibit and sell their work. The Rendville Art Show, held at the Bryn Du Mansion on November 15 to 17, is the annual Holiday Show presented by the Rendville Art Works Studio and Gallery from Rendville, Ohio. ♦

The annual Bryn Du Art Show features exhibited art available for sale.

22 Winter Season Events

"The first Christmas Candlelight Walking Tour on December 7, 1985, was the inspiration of long-time Granville resident, Marilyn Anderson, and brought 300 visitors. The popular event has grown to where it now brings way over 10 times the original number of visitors to town." Gloria Hoover, Candlelight Walking Tour publicist, 1985-1986

The first holiday and winter event of the year is Granville's Thanksgiving Farmers Market, held on the Saturday before Thanksgiving so that central Ohioans can make their Thanksgiving feast extra special with delectable foods fresh from the farm. Before preparing the feast, many local residents participate in a Thanksgiving morning tradition, the Turkey Trot. Event Chair Bruce Westall, owner of the Porch House Bed and Breakfast, who has coordinated the event since its beginning, humbly states that he only acted upon the suggestion of his friend, Granville resident Ginny Sharkey, to start the event in Granville. The event, a fundraiser for the Licking County Food Bank, has grown from 400 participants since its inception seven years ago to over 2000 Turkey Trotters, with participants ranging from children pushed in strollers to senior citizens. Last year's contribution to the Food Bank was $26,000.

The Christmas Candlelight Walking Tour is the gem of Granville events. It has become the official beginning of the Yule season, attracting travelers throughout Ohio as well as other states, to the festively decorated village. Once visitors experience the event, they return year after year to experience this holiday tradition that takes place on the first Saturday of December.

The event began when Marilyn Anderson was inspired to celebrate Granville's religious historical foundation of the early settlers. She asked the leadership of the churches on the four corners of Main and Broadway to offer music or pageants, and the Granville museum director to show exhibits depicting early pioneer life. Anderson produced the event in the following year and added the Granville Elementary School and the home of Denison's President, Robert Good, and his wife, Nancy, to the tour. The Goods served cookies, a custom that has continued throughout the event's 27-year history.

Chapel Walk on the campus of Denison University is picture perfect in any season.

In 1987, Anderson decided the growing event should involve the local merchants and asked Ruth Owen, Director of the Granville Business and Professional Association — the forerunner of the Granville Area Chamber of Commerce — to take the reins of the event. Owen obliged and the rest, as they say, is history.

For the past five years, Chamber member Lisa Williams Englefield, whose family owns Elm's Pizza Parlor, has orchestrated the event. Anderson and her husband retired to Florida, but her legacy remains. Granville resident, Gloria Hoover, who worked with Anderson on the first tour, reflects, "I think about Marilyn every first Saturday in December when I walk the tour — bumper to bumper — with visitors local and from miles away."

As the excitement of holiday festivities fade, one event holds strong. The highly popular Granville Farmers Market is one of a select few in Ohio to continue through February as a Winter Farmers Market, where basically everything except summer produce can be found on Saturday mornings from 9:30 a.m. to Noon at Granville Elementary School. ♦
